

Fiona leaves after 28 years

Fiona Bullock left the Trust on 8th April after 28 years of working in the radiology department. Fiona started at West Hill Hospital in 1987 and also worked at Joyce Green Hospital before moving with the department to Darent Valley Hospital.

Fiona trained in mammography in the mid-nineties and also in x-ray reporting in the late nineties. She has used these skills to contribute to the service and in particular has made a fantastic contribution to plain film reporting and its development.

Fiona is also well known in orthopaedics for her theatre imaging over many years. Fiona has used her knowledge to contribute to the training of the next generation of reporting radiographers. She will be dearly missed by her colleagues both personally and for her service contribution (10000 reports a year!)
