

Free Hats for Cancer Patients

Raine Miller, a volunteer on the Pine Therapy Unit held a charity evening back in August to raise money towards the purchase of hats for our cancer patients. The evening raised a wonderful £2,500 which has now been spent on purchasing a wide variety of hats. There are trilby's, cloches, beanies, flat caps plus many others, each chemotherapy patient can choose whichever one they fancy to wear and take home.

Raine said "I am so pleased to be able to offer each and every Pine Therapy patient a hat. Unfortunately hair loss or hair thinning can be one of the side effects of chemotherapy and it is so nice to be able to offer them just a little something, even if it is just a hat to wear during their treatment. The feedback from the patients has been really positive with 8 hats being handed out on the first day".
